Hannibal invaded Italy with the hope of raising widespread rebellions among Rome's subordinate allies. Yet even after crushing the Roman army at Cannae he was only partially successful. Why did some communities decide to side with Carthage and others to side with Rome? This is the fundamental question posed in this book and consideration is given to the particular political, diplomatic, military and economic factors that influenced individual communities' decisions. Un Fronda's fresh and modern approach to the Second Punic war's diplomatic arena which both incorporates material and numismatic evidence alongside written sources and situates events in their historical context offers much more than its subtitle suggests. A
